EMERGENCY PROCEDURE

Announcements will be preceded by a distinctive two-toned signal. In the event of an emergency evacuation we will ask all spectators to listen very carefully to the public address announcements which will direct you to the evacuation route you should take. An evacuation may concern one or more stands in the Stadium. If the evacuation does not affect your stand, please remain where you are unless directed otherwise. Please respond quickly, but calmly, to the announcements and to the requests of the Stewards and Police Officers to ensure a safe evacuation of the Stadium.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The Players, Directors and Staff of Bolton Wanderers Football Club wish to make clear our abhorrence of all forms of discrimination. Any fans who are caught abusing players or fans because of their race, gender, age, disability, religious belief or sexual orientation will face arrest and may be prosecuted. Bolton Wanderers celebrates diversity and asks you to support your club. Should you encounter any form of this unacceptable behaviour please email the club at feedback@bwfc.co.uk

IMPORTANT SAFETY NOTICE

In order to comply with Football League safety directives, Bolton Wanderers must ensure that supporters remain seated during matches. Supporters from both sides are therefore asked to refrain from standing for long periods of the game, it spoils it for others around you, and is a safety hazard. Everyone wants to enjoy themselves, but please understand the club's priority is to ensure the safety and well being of all spectators.

THE MANAGER

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

After a really promising start and establishing a two-goal lead in the weekend's game against Bournemouth, hopes were high that we could chalk up a win. Unfortunately, we once again conceded goals in an unusual set of circumstances.

The first goal was a terrific strike by Lewis Grabban, although at the time it looked to everyone as if the referee was going to stop the game for a head injury. We must still look at our defending - we have to play to the whistle.

Their second goal was an unfortunate one, with the ball going in through a crowd of players without a Bournemouth player nearby.

Thereafter it became an end-to-end game, which has been happening a lot recently at the Reebok. We could have won it, but we could have lost it too. It is now a case of making sure we eradicate the conceding of those goals in the manner that we have been doing recently.

I understand the reaction of the fans at the end of the game and the disappointment. I acknowledge that every fan is entitled to voice their opinion.

At the start of the game, when things were going well after two very well-worked goals, it was great to hear everyone behind us.

So, in what is going to be a challenging local derby this evening, it is important that everyone is with us from the start, which will in turn give us the best possible chance. We were pleased with the home debuts for two of our new signings in Lukas Jutkiewicz and Liam Trotter. Their performances show that they can certainly add to the team's potential.

Lukas' goal will certainly live long in the memory for some time. It was a terrific example of balance, composure and finishing.

This evening we welcome the management team, players, officials and fans of Burnley.

They started the season well and have maintained that momentum. They deservedly lie in the top three and are in with a real shout of automatic promotion.

Sean Dyche and his staff have done a really good job and we know it will be a competitive game this evening. Both sides need the points for different reasons.

Hopefully we can reproduce our attacking performance from the first part of the Bournemouth game at the weekend, whilst finding a way to combat Burnley's attacking intent.

If we play to our strengths and we get the rub of the green, which seems to have deserted us in recent times, we certainly believe we can pick up a positive result.

ZATKNIGHT

The boys were all disappointed after the result against Bournemouth on Saturday, especially considering the position we'd managed to get ourselves into with a two-goal lead.

We knew that it wasn't going to be an easy match, but once we'd taken a lead we felt comfortable.

It was an absolute wonder strike that pulled them back into the game and it knocked us back slightly.

I feel that if we'd made it to half time with the two-goal advantage intact, it would have been a completely different story and that's the most frustrating thing.

Come the second half, we know that we should have seen them off and put the game to bed. Unfortunately we weren't able to do that and we conceded a very sloppy goal at the near post to allow them to equalise.

It's disappointing in any game to surrender a two-goal lead, but especially at home in a match where we felt that we were in control.

We left that game feeling as though it was two points lost because it was one where the victory was there for the taking.

Bournemouth came on Saturday to a stadium where they've never played before with a nothing-to-lose attitude – especially when they went behind, there was no harm in them throwing everything forward and unfortunately it paid off for them.

We know that we let ourselves down on the day and ultimately you, the supporters, too.

We welcome Burnley to the Reebok this evening in a game which will definitely be a big test for us. They're flying high at the minute and have done well all season long.

It is going to be a tough game, but we will give our all in a bid to get a result out of the match.

Every game in this league is difficult – there are no easy matches so to speak, and you can't afford to underestimate anybody as they can punish you on any given day.

I can assure you that everybody involved in the match will be determined to put in a performance. If we can come out of the match with a positive result, it can potentially stand us in good stead for the important games we have coming up over the next few weeks.

Enjoy the game.

Help Ellis' Daddy raise £100,000 to find a cure for Ellis

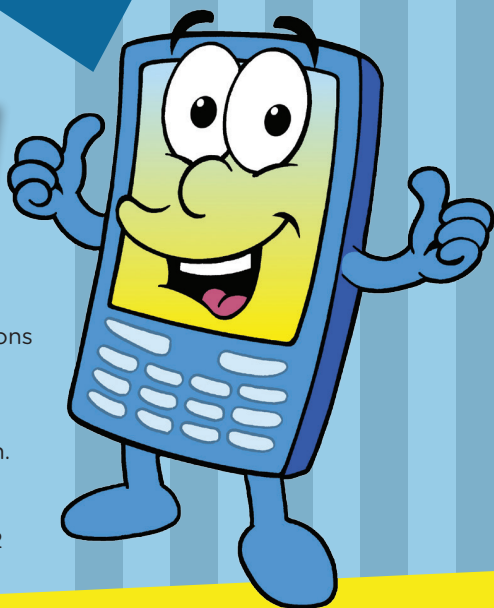

Richard Page is cycling 3,500 miles to all of Leicester City's Sky Bet Championship away games to raise money for his son, Ellis, who suffers from MECP2 Duplication Syndrome

The condition means that Ellis may never walk or talk, and suffers from chest infections and seizures, brought on by epilepsy.

Sky Bet, the title sponsor of the Football League, are backing Richard as he tries to raise £100,000 for the text“ellis” campaign.

With these funds, research can begin into finding a cure for Ellis, after an exciting breakthrough led to the reversal of MECP2 Duplication Syndrome in mice.

THE BIG INTERVIEW

LUKAS JUTKIEWICZ

HAVING INTRODUCED HIMSELF TO THE REEBOK FAITHFUL IN THE PERFECT FASHION WITH HIS STRIKE AGAINST BOURNEMOUTH ON SATURDAY, RECENT LOAN ACQUISITION LUKAS JUTKIEWICZ IS A MAN ON A MISSION TO HELP THE WHITES HIT FORM ONCE MORE.

Following his move to BL6, the 24-year-old sat down with the official matchday programme to offer an insight into his life and career so far...

How did you originally become involved in the game?

It wasn't really something that was in the family as I grew up with four older sisters – it was just something that I got into through school really.

My next door neighbour was older than me and he was always playing football, so I just joined in with him and it went from there really.

What was your first experience of playing competitively?

I played for my school and locally, and it wasn't long before I got scouted by Southampton when I was just nine. At the time I was just playing for a side called Windsor, and Southampton spotted me and brought me to the academy.

Have you always played as a striker?

Generally I have – when I was younger I played a little deeper in central midfield, but that was simply so I could run around and see a lot of the ball.

You were released by Southampton at the age of 14 – was that difficult to take?

It was, but I just stayed involved in football by playing locally again until I finished school a couple of years later and I signed for Swindon. I was ironically playing against them in a schoolboy game when they scouted me, and they brought me to the club when I was just 16.

Your time with Swindon was quite successful, especially given your young age?

It definitely was. I was lucky enough to be drafted into the first team just before my 17th birthday and I made my debut soon after before going on to spend the rest of my time there in the first team squad. I played quite a few games and we even got promoted from League Two into League One, but shortly after I was picked up by Everton.

How did it feel gaining promotion so early in your career?

Incredible – it was in my first full season as a professional too, so it was a great way to start my career.

You impressed enough to earn a move to the Premier League with Everton. How did that feel at such a young age?

It was a great experience, but perhaps it was a little too soon in hindsight. I was 17 when I signed for them and moved up there when I was 18 – it was an amazing experience to train with top class players every day, but a lot of my time there was spent out on loan.

I was in and around the first team and managed to make a Premier League appearance against Sunderland, but I just felt like I needed to get out there and get games under my belt in a bid to develop myself as a player.

It might not have been what I wanted it to be, but it was a learning experience that has stood me in good stead throughout my career.

During your time with Everton, you did enjoy spells with Plymouth Argyle, Huddersfield Town and Motherwell – quite a wide spectrum of places around the country!

Definitely. Throughout my career, I think I've spent time in all four corners of the UK!

It has been a good thing for me though – I've lived away from home since I was 16, so you have to grow up a little bit and develop yourself.

It's all part and parcel of the game though – nothing is easy, but it's all worth it when you make it in the end.

Following your time on Merseyside, you moved back down south to Coventry. How did you find your time there?

It was a great time in my career – I was there for about 18 months and I really enjoyed my spell there. Prior to joining them, I'd just finished my loan with Motherwell and I'd returned to Everton for pre-season and at that point, I'd just decided that it was important at my age to build on the experiences I'd had and move on.

Jurkiewicz getting to know his new teammates in training

Shortly after, you moved to Middlesbrough initially on loan before joining permanently in the summer of 2012. How did that transfer come about?

I'd been told that Boro were interested in me and it was a bit of a no brainer to be honest. At the time, they were flying high at the top of the table and I had a lot of respect for Tony Mowbray who was the manager at the time. It just seemed like the perfect stepping stone for me.

How have you found your time with Boro generally?

It's been a bit of a mixed bag, but I've enjoyed my time there. When I joined them on loan, I had a really good time but when I had my first full season last year, it was the first time in my career that I've really struggled with injuries.

When I was playing regularly I did score quite a few goals, but I struggled for consistency because of the four injuries I'd picked up which was frustrating.

You joined Wanderers a couple of weeks ago – how easy a decision was that to make?

Definitely – I'm relishing showing the Bolton fans what I can do. It's a great opportunity for me and as soon as the chance came up, I felt like it was the right move for me to make. It's a different challenge, but it's one that I'm looking forward to.

There were a few other clubs that made enquiries for me, but once I'd spoken to the manager here, my mind was made up. I felt wanted and valued and he sold the club to me really well.

You're not completely unfamiliar with some of your new teammates, are you?

I know Jermaine Beckford from my time at Everton. I'd just come back from Motherwell and he'd just signed for the club, so we went away on pre-season in Australia together. We only spent a few weeks together, but I got to know him really well and he's a great guy to get on with.

We're different types of players, but it's always good when you can learn and exchange tips with your teammates.

It was a bit of a baptism of fire for you in your debut for the club against QPR – how did it feel to make your bow?

I felt like it went quite well – obviously the result wasn't what we wanted at the end of the day, but it was nice to get out there. At that point, having signed that day I hadn't even trained with the squad but I was excited to get out there.

I wanted to make a decent first impression on the fans and my teammates and I think I did well enough.

What are your aims during your time with the club?

I just want to help Bolton climb the table – Middlesbrough were in a similar position to them at the start of the season, but they had a great run and shot up the league. It just shows how tight it is and it's proof that if you string a few results together what a difference it makes.

I've already played against Bolton this season when we came to the Reebok Stadium on New Year's Day – from that experience, I knew I was coming into a team that has a lot of quality.

You're eligible to play for the Republic of Ireland and Poland – is the international scene something that is high on your list of priorities?

Not really – my club football has always been the main thing for me. There was an enquiry from Poland while I was at Everton, but it was something that I didn't follow up. I see myself as English anyway, so playing for another country wouldn't really appeal.

Your name is interesting considering you were born in England. Have people even mistaken your nationality?

It's happened a few times where people have come up to me and spoken really slowly – mostly earlier on in my career, but it has happened more recently.

When I arrived at the club, Mark Davies actually thought that I didn't speak English – he only admitted to me after a few days of training that he thought I was Polish!

Have you got a favourite goal that you've scored in your career?

My first goal for Middlesbrough was against Sunderland in the FA Cup a couple of years ago – with it being my first for the club it was a great feeling, but to do it against their fierce rivals made it extra special.

What about your favourite game?

Without a doubt, that would be when I played for Motherwell against Hibernian in a televised game and we were 6-2 down with 20 minutes to go. We'd managed to get it back to 6-5, and I managed to get the equaliser in the 93rd minute. It was absolutely unbelievable and I loved every minute of it.

Who has been your favourite player that you've played alongside?

The most talented would have to be Gareth Bale. We were in the same year at Southampton's academy and Matt Mills was a couple of years above us. We also had Theo Walcott in our team – the pair of them have gone on to do really well for themselves too.

Finally, who has been the toughest player that you've played against?

That would be Lassana Diarra. I played against Portsmouth in the FA Cup and he was an awesome talent – nobody could get near him.

Dougie Freedman's reaction:

"We rallied in the end and gave it a real go in the final ten minutes, but overall it wasn't the result we wanted. We feel like we've dropped two points today, but we have got to stick together and ensure that we keep battling away."

Liam Trotter's reaction:

"I thought during the first half we were really good and were deserving of the two goal lead, but their first goal was a bit of a sucker punch. Sometimes you give them one shot from 25 yards and it goes in the top corner, but that's the Championship for you."

Eddie Howe's reaction:

"I'm pleased with the character shown. When you're 2-0 down away from home, questions will be asked about how you respond and we saw a team today that responded in fine fashion."

LIAM TROTTER

ON-LOAN MIDFIELDER HOPING TO FLOURISH IN CENTRAL MIDFIELD TRIO

Liam Trotter hopes more playing time in the Bolton first team will help him build on some encouraging initial partnerships with his new team-mates.

The deadline-day recruit made his home debut for Wanderers in the weekend's 2-2 draw with AFC Bournemouth at the Reebok Stadium at the weekend.

Trotter was deployed at the point of an attack-minded midfield trio, linking up with Mark Davies and Jay Spearing well, particularly in the first half.

And now the Millwall loanee believes that with more game time he will be able to quickly strike up a positive rapport with his new Bolton colleagues.

"In terms of integrating with the other players, I felt that the game went well from my point of view," Trotter said.

"Working in the midfield with two very good players in Jay Spearing and Mark Davies was enjoyable.

"I also feel like I linked up with Jukes (Lukas Jutkiewicz) when pushing forward.

"When you're surrounded by these kinds of players it's a lot easy to quickly fit in. Hopefully those partnerships can continue to develop with more games."

Even with some positive football in the opening half, Trotter's underlying emotion was one of frustration given the ultimate outcome of the game.

The visitors from the south coast would claw their way back from two goals down to earn a share of the spoils.

Trotter was very much of the belief that Lewis Grabban's goal in the run up to half time, to take the game to 2-1, had a significant impact on the game.

Trotter added: "Overall, I think we can certainly take a lot of positives from the first 40 minutes of the game. The other positive was the fact that we didn't lose the game.

"I thought we were deserving of the two-goal lead and that we played some good stuff.

"Their first goal then came out of nowhere and that was a bit of a sucker punch. Lewis Grabban has a shot from 25 yards and he puts it in the top corner.

"But that's what it is like in this league - there are some very good players. We've got to make sure that we don't allow teams those kinds of opportunities.

"That goal turned the tide of the game. You can't help but think that it would have been a different game had we been able to hold out until half time.

"Even when we conceded the second we showed good character for a push late on. Unfortunately we couldn't find a winner."

THE WEEK THAT WAS

February 5, 1997

Kevin Davies scored a hat trick as Chesterfield ran out 3-2 winners against Wanderers in an FA Cup fourth round tie at Burnden Park.

The last time a visiting side emerged victorious on the Manchester Road turf, a 19-year-old Davies hit a treble for the Spireites with Scott Green and Scott Taylor responding for the Whites.

February 9, 1994

Bruce Rioch's Bolton side enjoyed a memorable cup upset as they ran out 3-1 winners against Arsenal at Highbury in an FA Cup fourth round replay.

With the first game having finished 2-2 – a fate which would befall Wanderers again in replay itself – extra time goals from Jason McAteer and Andy Walker secured the Whites' progression at the expense of the Gunners.

February 11, 2007

Goals from Gary Speed and Kevin Nolan earned Wanderers a 2-1 victory over Fulham at the Reebok Stadium.

A season which saw the Whites qualify for the UEFA Cup with a seventh place finish in the Premier League table, this clash also saw current club captain Zat Knight on the score sheet for the visitors.

February 6, 1970

Wanderers' club legend Per Frandsen was born in Copenhagen, Denmark with the midfielder going on to enjoy a seven year stint with the club over two separate spells.

A member of the Whites' promotion winning campaign of 2001, Frandsen scored 39 goals in 307 appearances during his time in the North West.

February 10, 1944

Nat Lofthouse hit four goals as Bolton ran out impressive 6-1 winners against Tranmere Rovers at Burnden Park, with the frontman having hit a hat trick in the first meeting on the Wirral earlier in the season.

A true stalwart of the club, the Bolton-born striker devoted his life to his hometown team, making 452 League appearances and scoring 255 goals during his time as a player.

Man City 4-0 Wanderers

Wanderers' under-21 side suffered a 4-0 defeat against their Manchester City counterparts at a rain sodden Ewen Fields last Wednesday evening.

In testing conditions in Hyde, the game began with some caution from both teams as the pitch played its part in the opening actions of the clash, but Wanderers almost took advantage of a loose ball inside three minutes as Conor Wilkinson fired narrowly over the crossbar.

Despite a seemingly sluggish start however, the Blues sent out a warning sign in the tenth minute as Marcos Lopes turned his man in the area before slamming his effort against the post with Jay Lynch beaten.

The chance appeared to rejuvenate Patrick Vieira's side, with Lynch saving well from an unmarked Greg Leigh's header shortly after,

Having been forced to defend deeply for a stint, Wanderers almost shocked the home side when Tom Youngs broke on the counter attack and scurried goalbound, but the youngster couldn't keep his shot down with the goal at his mercy.

Just a minute later, Wilkinson looked certain to hand Bolton the lead as he delicately slotted the ball under the advancing Lawlor, but Shay Facey was to spare his goalkeeper's blushes as he deflected the goalbound effort away for a corner.

After withstanding a tirade of Wanderers pressure, City did punish the visitors for not capitalising on their dominance as Seko Fofana fired home from just outside the penalty area with 31 minutes gone.

A harsh goal for the Whites to concede, the hosts proceeded to double their lead six minutes later through Sinan Bytyqi whose long range effort squirmed under the body of Lynch.

Buoyed by their two goals, City turned on the style as the half drew to its conclusion with a handful of other chances going begging, but Wanderers defended resiliently to ensure that the half ended with the deficit at two.

With conditions still proving to be a nuisance as the second period, the first notable chance of the half didn't appear until the 50th minute when Devante Cole forced Jay Lynch into a smart save at his near post.

Not to be denied however, the youngster proceeded to fire home City's third in some style just a minute later, curling the ball into the top corner of the net with the Bolton goalkeeper given no chance.

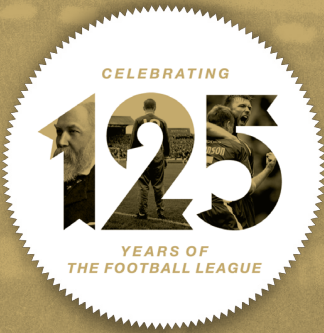

Following a period of sustained pressure from the hosts, City did extend their lead with 68 minutes gone through Jordy Hiwula who bundled home from close range.

As the clock ran down, both Hall and Luke Woodland enjoyed opportunities to pull a goal back for Bolton with the former's well taken free-kick ensuring that Lawlor was on his guard, but their efforts were ultimately in vain as City held out to record a handsome victory.

NEWCASTLE 2-1 WANDERERS

Wanderers' under-18 side slipped to their first defeat of the calendar year with a narrow 2-1 reverse at the hands of their Newcastle United counterparts on Saturday afternoon.

Heading into the clash on the back of four successive league victories, the club's youngsters came up against a stubborn Magpies outfit who had themselves won their last six games.

With confidence high, Bolton had started the brighter of the two sides with the Whites' frontline peppering the United goal with efforts early on.

Their hard work however was undone soon after as the hosts raced into a two goal lead following mistakes in the Bolton backline.

A bitter pill to swallow for David Lee and Tony Kelly's side, they did not let the knockback deter them and set about looking to force their way back into the clash.

Fresh from their goals against Manchester United last time out, Jamie

Thomas and Elliot Newby both enjoyed glorious opportunities to halve the deficit but were denied by a number of excellent saves from the Newcastle United goalkeeper.

As the half drew to its conclusion, Aaron Knight also went close for Bolton but the striker was thwarted by the seemingly unbeatable United shot-stopper.

With the second period well and truly underway, Wanderers were still the team in the ascendancy and continued to force the Magpies' keeper into more impressive saves to keep the Whites at bay.

Following more efforts from Tom Walker, Sam Bailey and Thomas however, the visitors were finally rewarded for their determination as Knight pulled a goal back with a well taken free-kick on the hour mark.

A richly deserved strike, Wanderers pushed for an equaliser as the clock ran down and looked to have snatched a point late on as Thomas rattled a free-kick against the crossbar, but their hard work was to be in vain as the Magpies held out for all three points.

Admittedly disappointed with the final result, coach Lee explained that he couldn't have asked much more of his players in a game which he felt they were incredibly unfortunate to leave empty handed.

"We were by far the better team throughout – we created several one on one situations and if we'd have converted them and been more clinical, it could well have been a completely different result," he said following the final whistle.

"We conceded goals through individual errors which was disappointing, but we continued to dominate the game after that.

"Overall, we were pleased with the application, desire and attitude of the players throughout the game and it is something that we will be looking to replicate when we play Manchester City on Saturday."

Bolton: Campbell, Bailey, Garratt, Honeyball, Greenaugh, Kennedy, Hinchcliffe (Hamer, 65), Walker, Knight, Thomas, Newby.

SO FAR THIS SEASON...

Having won 10 of their opening 13 Championship fixtures, Burnley started November three points clear at the top of the table. However, having won just five games since then, recent inconsistencies see the Clarets lie in second place at the time of writing - 11 points behind runaway leaders Leicester City.

With it seemingly inevitable that the Foxes will secure their place in Premier League next year, Burnley now face a fight with Queens Park Rangers for the other automatic promotion spot.

And with Derby County, Nottingham Forest and Reading hot on their heels, Burnley are in desperate need to rediscover their early season form.

The Clarets actually come into today's fixture off the back of a seven-match unbeaten league run, defeating Millwall 3-1 in their last outing on Saturday afternoon.

However, four of those matches having ended in stalemate, highlighting the change in Burnley's fortunes since their impressive start to the campaign, where Brighton & Hove Albion were the only side to take maximum points off the Clarets in the season's formative weeks.

Since that run, poor away form has proven particularly costly as Burnley slowly loosened their hold on top spot.

After winning five of their first six fixtures away from Turf Moor, Burnley's only win on their travels since mid-October came last month against struggling Yeovil Town.

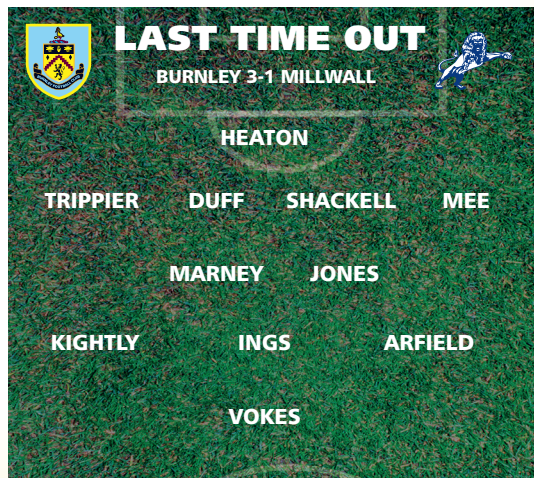

Despite this, a solid display in the Clarets' narrow FA Cup exit to Southampton at St Mary's showed what Sean Dyche's men have in their locker.

Ashley Barnes was brought in from Brighton during the January transfer window to help add some spark, but with just four late cameos to his name the forward has failed to make much of an impact so far.

Fortunately for Dyche, the form of Danny Ings and Sam Vokes ensures his side will never be short of goals. With the pair registering 24 and 15 goals respectively already this campaign, the duo will definitely be the men Dougie Freedman's side need to be most wary of tonight.

Ings was on the scoresheet the last time these two sides met back on the opening day of the season, where a Darren Pratley strike earned Dougie Freedman's men an equal share of the points at Turf Moor.

Having seen that result kick-start his side's campaign and early season run of results, Dyche will be hopeful Burnley can use today's clash as a way of giving their promotion bid a welcome boost.

STAR MAN

With 24 goals to his name already this season, Danny Ings is enjoying a campaign to remember.

Having seen his goalscoring exploits earn him an England U21 debut back in October, the forward now has his eyes set on helping Burnley secure promotion to the Premier League.

Released by Southampton as a schoolboy, Ings was handed a professional contract by Bournemouth in May 2008 having progressed through the club's centre of excellence.

Ings made his Cherries debut as a substitute against Northampton Town in October 2009, though injury prevented him from featuring again that season.

After enjoying a successful loan spell at Dorchester Town at the start of the 2010/11 season, Ings made his league debut for Bournemouth at the end of December against MK Dons.

His first senior goal soon followed, with the forward scoring the Cherries' second goal in a 3-2 victory against Swindon Town.

Becoming a regular as the campaign wore on, Ings finished the year with eight goals in 28 appearances as Bournemouth reached the League One Play-Off semi-finals, only to lose on penalties to Huddersfield Town.

Despite reported interest from Celtic, Fulham, Liverpool and Newcastle United, Ings left Bournemouth to link up with his former manager Eddie Howe at Burnley in August 2011.

A knee cartilage tear within a week of joining the Claret's ruled Ings out for five months, ensuring he would have to wait until February to make his Burnley debut.

After making his return against Barnsley, Ings didn't notch his maiden Burnley goal until the end of March in a 5-1 thrashing of Portsmouth but would end the campaign with three goals from 15 matches.

Following the sale of Jay Rodriguez to Southampton in June 2012, Ings started pre-season as Burnley's first choice striker. However, another serious injury would rule him out for three months as he tore the cartilage in his opposite knee to the year before.

Making an early return in October, Ings struggled for form for the rest of the season, managing just three goals in 33 appearances as Burnley finished in mid-table.

After the sale of Charlie Austin to Queens Park Rangers back in August, Ings once again was given the opportunity to stake his claim as the Claret's' main forward - an opportunity he has firmly grabbed with both hands.

Scoring goals for fun as Burnley challenge for promotion, Ings made his England U21 debut against San Marino back in October, before scoring twice in the return fixture a month later.

THE BOSS

Having won promotion as a player with Bristol City, Millwall and Northampton Town, Sean Dyche is hoping to replicate that success as a manager by leading Burnley back into the Premier League for the first time since 2010.

Dyche started his career with Nottingham Forest in the eighties, playing under legendary manager Brian Clough. However, he left the Tricky Trees to join Chesterfield in 1990 having never made a senior appearance for the club.

During his seven years at the club Dyche became Chesterfield captain and was a member of the side that won promotion to Division Two via the Play-Offs in 1995.

He was also one of the prominent figures in Chesterfield's FA Cup run in 1996/97 as the club reached the semi-finals, only to lose controversially against Premier League outfit Middlesbrough, despite Dyche having given his side a two-goal lead at one point.

Dyche left the club for Bristol City at the end of the season, and helped his new side win promotion to Division One in his first season with the club.

However, Dyche fell out of favour the following season as City were relegated, and spent time on loan at Luton Town before joining Millwall.

The defender helped the Lions win promotion to Division One in 2001, before they narrowly missed out on reaching the Premier League the following year, losing to Birmingham City in the Play-Offs.

Joining Watford in 2002, Dyche spent three years with the club, captaining the side in his final year before finishing his career with Northampton Town.

Winning promotion to League One in his first season with the club, Dyche lost his place in the side during the 2006/07 campaign, and was released at the end of the year.

Dyche rejoined Watford as under-18s coach in 2007, before later stepping up to first become the club's assistant manager, then manager following Malky Mackay's departure to Cardiff City in June 2011.

In his only season in charge, Dyche guided Watford to a respectable 11th place finish in the Championship, but following a club takeover the 42-year-old was dismissed and replaced by Gianfranco Zola.

After a brief spell as a member of the England U21's backroom staff, Dyche returned to management in October 2012 as he replaced Eddie Howe as Burnley manager.

Finishing mid-table in his first few months in charge, this season Burnley have enjoyed their best ever start to a Championship campaign.

Currently sitting second in the table, Dyche's efforts saw him named as Championship Manager of the Month for both September and October.

As Burnley continue to challenge for a place in England's top flight next season, we look at the only Premier League clash between the two sides as Owen Coyle recorded his first league win as Bolton manager against his former club.

With Coyle facing Burnley for the first time since leaving the club to join Wanderers the month before, the clash at the Reebok Stadium was always destined to be a heated affair.

The fact that it was also a mid-season relegation six-pointer also helped stoke the flames, with both sides desperate to put some space between themselves and the bottom three.

David Nugent had cancelled out Matthew Taylor's opener the last time the two sides faced off just a month earlier in a fixture that proved to be Coyle's last home match in charge of Burnley.

Now settled at his new club, Coyle's Bolton went into the tie off the back of his first victory in charge - a 2-0 win over Sheffield in the FA Cup - and were eager to build momentum heading into the deciding months of the season.

Burnley meanwhile, now managed by Brian Laws, had just recorded back-to-back defeats against Manchester United and Championship side Reading.

With more than just three points on the line as they made the short trip to Bolton however, anything other than victory was not an option.

The Burnley supporters made their feelings clear about their one-time manager even before kick-off but rather than get fazed by the atmosphere, Bolton answered for their new boss in the perfect fashion.

Burnley's hopes of embarrassing their former leader were rocked by two early injury setbacks as first Chris McCann and then influential veteran Graham Alexander limped off injured, forcing Laws into changes with Kevin McDonald and Martin Paterson coming on in their places.

Alexander had already demonstrated his importance to the Clarets by creating an opportunity for Michael Duff, but his rising drive posed no threat to Bolton keeper Jussi Jaaskelainen.

And Bolton almost took advantage of uncertainty in Burnley's defence after the reshuffle when Fabrice Muamba raced clear of the Burnley backline, but a lack of composure saw the midfielder loft the ball over the onrushing Brian Jensen and consequently the crossbar.

As Bolton pushed for an opener, Gary Cahill headed narrowly over, but Burnley fought back with chances of their own as Steven Fletcher forced a smart save from Jaaskelainen, while future Wanderer Chris Eagles was unable to convert the rebound.

Bolton however proceeded to take the lead after 35 minutes when Kevin Davies' flick found winger Chung-Yong Lee, with the South Korean racing on before unleashing a fierce drive that found its way into the back of the net via the underside of the crossbar.

Christian Kalvenes and Eagles both came close for Burnley before the interval as the Clarets looked to level the scores before the break, but their efforts came to nothing.

With Bolton growing more confident as the game wore on, Jensen had to be alert to keep out Taylor's deft strike, while Tamir Cohen headed wide after a long throw caused confusion in the Burnley penalty area.

With his side desperately chasing an equaliser, Laws introduced new loan signing Frederic Nimani to the action with 25 minutes remaining, but the Monaco loanee was unable to find a breakthrough.

Only an excellent reaction save from Jensen denied substitute Ricardo Gardner from adding a more emphatic feel to the scoreline as Bolton held on for all three points, much to the disappointment of the travelling Burnley crowd.

Victory for Bolton saw them climb out of the bottom three as they rose to 15th place, while Burnley dropped into the relegation zone, behind West Ham United and Wolverhampton Wanderers on goal difference alone.

MIAMI VISIT SUCCESS FOR ISS

The Institute of Sport and its International Soccer School recently paid a visit to Miami to work with the Soccer Demillo camp.

The second time that the ISS has travelled to the USA to get involved with the camp and its founder Carlos Demillo, the team spent a week there between 29 January and 5 February.

Boasting 22 players from a variety of countries including the USA, Colombia, Ecuador, Aruba and Panama, two of those involved will be attending the International Football Studies programme provided by Bolton Wanderers Football Club in September, with a further ten being invited to the World Grand Skills Final which will be held later this year.

Put through their paces by the ISS' manager David Bailey, the youngsters took part in games and coaching sessions to earn their place at the seventh annual final.

Speaking regarding the camp, Bailey commented on the quality of the players involved and admitted his delight at how much of a success the trip had been.

"Usually we look to invite three or four to attend our Skills competition, but the talent on show was so high and from many different countries that I decided to invite more so that they can have the Bolton Wanderers experience," he explained.

"The talent and attitude were first class - these boys live and dream as all players do about turning professional, and part of that dream is coming to England so to be able to offer that opportunity is very special."

Following on from the success of the recent camp, the ISS have already been invited to return to Miami in July to run a third development camp with Soccer Demillo.

HATE CRIME AWARENESS DAY

Bolton Wanderers Community Trust held a Hate Crime Awareness Day at the Reebok Stadium on January 25, 2014 as part of the National Hate Crime Awareness Week.

BWCT took young people from both their Gr8er Goals Project which runs in Heywood Park and their PL Kicks Projects which runs in Tonge Moor, Farnworth and Westhoughton to the day which included football matches, a Hate Crime Awareness Workshop and Wanderers' recent FA Cup fourth round clash with Cardiff City.

The day started at Bolton Arena where the young people took part in a number of five-a-side football matches before heading over to the BWFC Study Centre to get involved in the Hate Crime Workshop.

This involved a question and answer session with PC Jane Wilcox from Greater Manchester Police as well as a DVD and discussion about the 'Every Action Has Its Consequences' Scheme, plus a short 'Hate Crime Awareness Quiz'.

The groups were then invited to watch the Bolton's game against Premier League side Cardiff City at the Reebok Stadium.

A successful day for all those involved, one youngster said, "I really enjoyed the workshop today - I learned a lot."

He added: "I didn't know that Hate Crime happens so much and now when I hear or see it I will know that it is wrong and will try to do something about it."

If you have been a victim of hate crime or if you know someone who has, there are lots of different ways to report it.

You can call GMP on 101, call Manchester City Council on 08000 830007 or report it online via True Vision at www.report-it.org.uk.

CHAPLAIN'S VIEW

BEYOND THE 90

Remembering our place in history

In what is the Football League's 125th anniversary year, we should never forget that we were one of the founding clubs of that League and tonight we face another in the shape of Burnley.

The man that pulled the Football League together was William McGregor.

William, a draper by trade, moved from his beloved Perthshire to Birmingham where he linked up with Aston Villa Football Club.

His name was to ever be linked to the Villans, where today can be found a bronze statue of him in recognition of all he did for the club and football as a whole.

His gift was in administration, and he was to use that to powerful effect to change football into the game organised in the way we recognise today.

At the time there was no real system regarding how the game was organised. Teams would turn up to play one another, sometimes without enough players so people would get pulled out of the crowd to make up numbers.

Teams often turned up late and on occasions not all, especially if they had found a better opposition to play on that day.

This was having an impact on the crowds and at a time when players were beginning to be paid it was having a great impact on the financial security of clubs who were on the brink of disappearing.

William, now working in the football world of his day and passionate of the future of Aston Villa, called a meeting together of 12 clubs to form a league where there would be regulations ensuring teams came together with the right number of players, at the right time and that home and away fixtures would be set.

The meeting took place in London on Friday 23 March 1888, with the decision being made that day that the Football League as we know it today would be born.

William was an enthusiastic Christian man with a passion for fairness and honesty which played such a significant part in how he was to set up the league that would then go on to change football all over the world.

It is wonderful to think that Bolton Wanderers was there at the very beginning of it all and we should all be proud to support a team steeped in such history.

Enjoy the game.

WATFORD

The next home test for Dougie Freedman and his Bolton team will be on Saturday 22 February when Watford visit the Reebok Stadium.

On their last trip to BL6 back in September 2012, the Hornets, managed then by Chelsea legend Gianfranco Zola, slipped to a narrow defeat against the Trotters.

Defender Matt Mills scored his first goal for Wanderers, before Kevin Davies doubled the lead to put the Whites in a commanding position.

Football League veteran Lloyd Doyley did pull one back for the visitors, but they were unable to force a share of the spoils and left the Reebok Stadium empty handed.

There have been a number of changes at the Hertfordshire club since then though, with the most notable of these being Zola's resignation from his position in December 2013 following an inconsistent start to their campaign.

Giuseppe Sannino, a fellow Italian and former manager of Chievo Verona, replaced Zola shortly after his resignation from the Vicarage Road hotseat.

Since the Pozzo family took over Watford in June 2012, a staggering 16 players have made the move from Udinese to the Hornets.

This relationship continued during the recent January transfer window, with Mathias Ranéigie and Alexander Merkel both joining from the Italians, before Héctor Bellerín extended his loan stay from Barclays Premier League side Arsenal.

West Bromwich Albion midfielder George Thorne also agreed to stay with the club until the end of the campaign, while experienced campaigner Fitz Hall teamed up with Sannino.

Following a number of disappointing results over the festive period against the likes of Reading and Bournemouth, the Hornets did record an impressive 2-0 victory over their Brighton counterparts in their last home outing.

Despite their inconsistency in the league, Watford's run in the FA Cup has been something of a consolation for the club's fans as they defeated Bristol City in the third round before offering a stern test for Manchester City at the Etihad Stadium in the last 32 of the competition.

Fernando Forestieri and Troy Deeney remarkably put Sannino's side two goals to the good in Manchester, but following a fight back inspired by Sergio Aguero, the Blues blew Watford away after the interval and ran out 4-2 winners.

Deeney in particular has once again this season earned praise for his exploits in front of goal, with the 25-year-old currently the club's top scorer.

Deeney, but most importantly Sannino, will be hoping he can continue his fine form between now and the end of the season as the Hornets look to mount a late play-off push.

MANBEHIND THE MIC

Philip Gittins
Wanderers Player commentator

When the Football League began back in 1888, six of the twelve founder members resided in the North West of England.

As a result, the region is the home for some of the most deeply entrenched rivalries that exist between clubs in the country.

Two of those sides are Burnley and of course our very own Bolton Wanderers who clash here tonight in a repeat of the opening day fixture between the clubs at Turf Moor - one of six specially arranged clashes by the Football League to commemorate its 125th anniversary.

Fittingly it was an afternoon upon which even the weather seemed to have a sense of occasion as Turf Moor was bathed in sunshine in front of the Sky television cameras.

A hard fought 1-1 draw ensued as there was not much between the sides, which was in keeping with the respective records of these two old foes in this long running fixture – to date, this evening's visitors just shade matters with 45 victories to our 43 from the 129 matches so far.

Undeniably so far this campaign the Clarets have enjoyed better fortunes than the Whites as they have remained in the top six for the majority of this term, firmly in the hunt for one of the two automatic promotion places on offer come May.

But while Sean Dyche's men arrive having experienced more fruitful times over the last few months, Wanderers can point to their recent record on home territory against the East Lancastrians as grounds for optimism.

Indeed, you have to go back to 1985 for the last time that the men from Turf Moor emerged victorious from a trip to the home of Bolton Wanderers, when both clubs were occupants of the old Third Division with the six encounters since yielding four wins for the Whites and two draws.

One of those victories was back in February last year when the Whites overturned a deficit to run out 2-1 winners - a repeat of that result would do very nicely tonight.

Come on you Whites!

Enjoy the game.
